

Establishment of a Graduate School of Humanities (Humanities Reorganization Plan)

In April 2017 Nagoya University will establish a new Graduate School of Humanities. This school will be created through the merger of the present Graduate School of Letters, Graduate School of Languages and Cultures and the Graduate School of International Development's Department of International Communication.

The establishment of the Graduate School of Humanities has been approved by the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology.

Because of the above change, entrance examinations for the Graduate School of Languages and Cultures will not be held this year. Instead, entrance examinations for the new Graduate School of Humanities will be held.
